Town Topics.

He didn't read the papers, for they hadn't any news.
At least they didn't coincide with his special view.
And when he came to town one day, with criticism ripe;
He climbed to an electric light to light his ancient pipe;
He hadn't read the papers, but he knew just what was best;
He simply touched the wire, and—the fluid did the rest.

EL PASO, IN THE CONSUME.

A pretty state of affairs has come to light in the El Paso short line project.
It will be remembered that at the convention held at El Paso, that the representatives of that city stated that they held the field notes and profile of the old survey between White Oaks and El Paso, and on account of that, claimed and procured exemption from any part of the new survey expense from White Oaks, north. It now transpires that when it became imperative for Mr.
Ropes to have the use of these El Paso notes to enable him to have his work conform with that already done and to make the proper connections at this point, the important papers were not forthcoming.

The following letter explains itself:
El Paso, Texas, Nov. 30, 1891.
HON. THOS. W. LINCOLN, White Oaks.
MY DEAR SIR—Your favor of the 23d to hand, and I note what you say about forcing Mr. Nevens to surrender the notes and profile of the K. C., E. P. & M.
R. R., through process of court.

When I was appointed receiver, I called upon Mr. Locke for the profile and notes. He then informed me that Mr. Nevens had taken them and would not surrender them unless he was paid $3,500.00, the amount due him by the White Oaks railroad. I notified Mr.
Locke that unless Mr. Nevens turned over the papers, I would take the steps indicated in your letter, by court proceedings to recover the papers as property of the railroad.

Mr. Nevens then notified me that he had placed the papers where the courts could never find them and that he would leave the next day for Elgin, Ills., and dodged us to find his whereabouts.
Since then not knowing his address, I have taken no steps in the matter.

Fully realizing the value of these papers to the K. C., E. P. & M. R. R. Co., I am ready to take the necessary steps to recover them, if we can find out where to reach them.

Very truly yours,
CHAS. DAVIS,
Receiver K. C., E. P. & M. R. R.

The above letter presents a nice "kot-tle of fish" and apparently leaves El Paso in the soup.

The representatives of the Gate City must have known the exact status of this matter when they agreed to furnish the notes in question and received exemption from assessment on account of the survey of the Denver and El Paso short line.

Gentlemen of El Paso, why did you promise something which you knew at the time, you could not fulfill? It is in order for you to rise up and explain.

The railroad convention of September last was called by El Paso and the other localities along the line have a right to demand fair and honorable treatment at their hands.

Come out of the tureen and square yourselves!
